

HOME RUN DERBY

Monday July 13, 2026 · Citizens Bank Park, Philadelphia · Netflix · $1,000 Bankroll · SETTLED 2–5 · –$475.00

■ SETTLED · MONDAY JULY 13 · JORDAN WALKER IS YOUR CHAMPION

2–5 · NET –$475.00

Walker homered on his final six swings to stun Schwarber 12–11 in the final — the first Cardinal ever to win the Derby. Our anchor was one swing short.

R1: Contreras 13 · Walker 13 · Caminero 12 · Schwarber 10 · Murakami 9 · Harper 8 · Caglianone 8 · Rice 7 · Semis: Schwarber 9–8 Contreras, Walker 6–5 Caminero · ~130 total HRs cashed the event over ✓

WHY SCHWARBER ANCHORS THE CARD

- ▶ Leads MLB with 32 home runs at the break — most raw in-season power in the field
- ▶ Citizens Bank Park is his home yard: 45,000 Philly fans and total familiarity with the batter's eye
- ▶ New swing-count format rewards efficient, repeatable swings over stamina — his specialty
- ▶ Priced +310 (mkt ~22% after vig) — we make it closer to 27%

WHY THE VOLUME PROPS

- ▶ Bonus rule (keep swinging while you homer) inflates totals vs old timed format
- ▶ July night in Philly — ball carries; experts backing longest-HR overs for this park
- ▶ Schwarber R1 over 10.5 needs just 11 of 20+ swings out — he hit 16 in a 2022 round
- ▶ Rice over 9.5 (VSiN lean): compact lefty swing built for the 330-ft RF corner

⚾ THE MANDATORY LONGSHOT

⚾ WILLSON CONTRERAS WINS THE DERBY · $75 STAKE

The biggest price in an eight-man field. The case: catchers have shocked this event before (his brother Willson's old rival Vazquez aside, think Sánchez '17 runner-up), Contreras owns a career 115-mph max exit velocity, and in a swing-count format one hot 20-swing round puts anyone in the semis — where a three-round tournament becomes a coin-flip gauntlet. At 14-to-1 we only need him to be live 7% of the time; we make it exactly that. Pure lottery ticket, exactly what the longshot slot is for.

MISS — longshot record now 0-for-5. He was the story of the night: a 13-HR R1 leading round while 45,000 booed, then out by one swing in the semis.

would have returned $1,125.00

Post-mortem. The volume thesis was right — ~130 homers blew past 119.5 and Caminero's 491-footer cashed the distance prop — but the player-specific bets all died by inches: Schwarber's R1 came in at exactly 10 (under by half a homer), he lost the final 12–11, Contreras fell one semifinal swing short at 14-to-1, and Ben Rice face-planted at 7. Jordan Walker — a name we passed on at +700 — homered on his final six swings to become the first Cardinal champion. Final: 2–5, –$475.00. The structural reads cashed; the star power didn't.
