USA vs Spain ★ FINAL: USA 29–22 — covered –3.5 by a converted-try margin	FT	USA ✔ 29–22	WON
Canada vs Zimbabwe Canada reeling after Portugal loss; Zimbabwe feisty vs Tonga	~7:00 PM	Canada	LOW

FORM THROUGH TWO ROUNDS

THE UNBEATENS

- ▶ Georgia 2-0: beat Uruguay 41–34 away-style shootout, then dismantled Samoa 33–12 — clear class of the field
- ▶ USA 2-0: survived Portugal 30–29, handled Zimbabwe 31–15 — winning but not dominant
- ▶ Chile 2-0: 48–31 over Romania, 38–17 over Hong Kong — untested vs the top
- ▶ Spain 1-0-1: 42–42 draw at Canada, then 32–19 over Tonga — improving weekly

ANGLES TO PRICE ON FRIDAY

- ▶ Georgia's handicap vs Chile — books may under-rate the gap (Georgia is a Tier-1-adjacent side)
- ▶ USA-Spain total — USA games have been tight & high-ish; Spain's attack traveled well
- ▶ Portugal -hcp vs Tonga — Tonga has faded in second halves both weeks
- ▶ Longshot candidate: exact-margin or Spain outright upset, depending on prices

BET	ODDS	STAKE	EST. WIN
Georgia -12.5 ✔ WIN — Georgia 49–22 (covered by 14.5) · returned $646.31, +$306.31	-111	$340	WIN
USA -3.5 ✔ WIN — USA 29–22 (covered by 3.5) · returned $286.36, +$136.36	-110	$150	WIN
🎱 Longshot: Georgia -12.5 + USA -3.5 ✔ HIT — both legs covered · returned $217.80, +$157.80 · first longshot to land (1-for-7)	+263	$60	HIT

Why so light. Only Chile–Georgia and USA–Spain drew postable handicap lines — the other four tier-2 matches never got hung, so betting them would mean inventing prices, which we don't do. Georgia is the conviction play (unbeaten, the class of the field, a tipster three-unit call to cover –12.5); USA –3.5 is the medium lean in the centerpiece. The longshot is a modest two-leg parlay of the pair — the best "longshot" a two-market slate allows. $450 stays dry and available to the account. Max return if all three land ≈ $1,150.

Fictitious $1,000 bankroll test — no real money wagered. For entertainment purposes only.
